Pastor's Corner

Dear Brothers and Sisters,

This weekend, we celebrate the Fourth Sunday in Ordinary Time. It is hard to believe that the first month of 2024 is nearing an end. This weekend in the Gospel, we hear Jesus rebuke and expel an unclean spirit on the sabbath. This caused concern for those around him for two reasons, namely that he was capable of expelling an unclean spirit and that he did so on the sabbath, when no work was to be done.

Jesus' first miracle is, significantly, an exorcism, a sign that in his presence the power of evil is reduced to impotency. God's rule is at hand. In antiquity, sickness was ascribed from evil spirits. Many of Jesus' miracles are recounted in terms of exorcism.

A common feature in miracle stories is to describe the gravity of the sufferer's affliction; this is intimated here by the defiant cries of the demoniac: "What do you have to do with us, Jesus of Nazareth?"

Jesus is, in effect, recognized as the Messiah, anointed with God's Spirit and possessing power over evil spirits. "I know who you are:" To know one's adversary's name was to give one a magical power over him; the demon names Jesus twice: "Jesus of Nazareth," then "God's Holy One," i.e., a charismatic prophet like Elisha. Here, as elsewhere in Mark, Jesus' true identity is a secret kept from the crowds, but known to the Christian reader and attested by the demons.

To rebuke in this context, is to exorcise. Jesus uses his divine authority to cast the demon aside and bring salvation to the once-condemned man. Doing so on the sabbath establishes Jesus' rule over the sabbath. The Messiah, the Divine Son of God, is the ruler over the sabbath and it is clear that a new law is being established.

To trust in God's desire to bring healing and mercy is to recognize God's love for each of us. Perhaps this week, we can consider how God has brought healing and mercy to us in our own lives and seek to offer healing and mercy to others who may be in need of the love of God.

God bless,
Fr. Smith

ST. PETER BIBLE STUDY

The character of St. Peter is both inspiring and confounding to many of us. How could a stubborn and impulsive fisherman become the “rock” upon which Jesus would build his Church? Bringing together biblical accounts, historical evidence, Church teaching, classical art, and personal insights, Dr. Tim Gray gives a fresh perspective on Simon Peter that is immediately informative and relevant to our lives. After all, if Jesus could bring out the very best in someone like Peter, then there is hope for the rest of us. This Bible Study happens every Friday morning, beginning at 8:45 a.m. and runs through Friday, April 12, except for Good Friday on March 29.

WHAT IS THIS?

Reflection on Mark 1:21-28

"All were amazed and asked one another, 'What is this?'" Through many years of ministry, countless relationships, extensive travel, and everyday experiences, I have been surprised and amazed at what God is up to, over and over again.

To be astonished by the teachings and works of Jesus, the Holy One of God, is a blessing that requires us to look at the world in a certain way. This is the essence of faith. Faith is a way of seeing, a lens through which to view the world, the universe, and my place in it, as held in God's hands, and not random and meaningless. The glance of faith affirms that grace upholds everything, and that there is a certain reason to expect and wait for the greatness to come, that there is a direction and purpose to it all. Though not seen in its fullness now, faith's sight shows us that it is all going somewhere marvelous, that God is faithful to His promises.

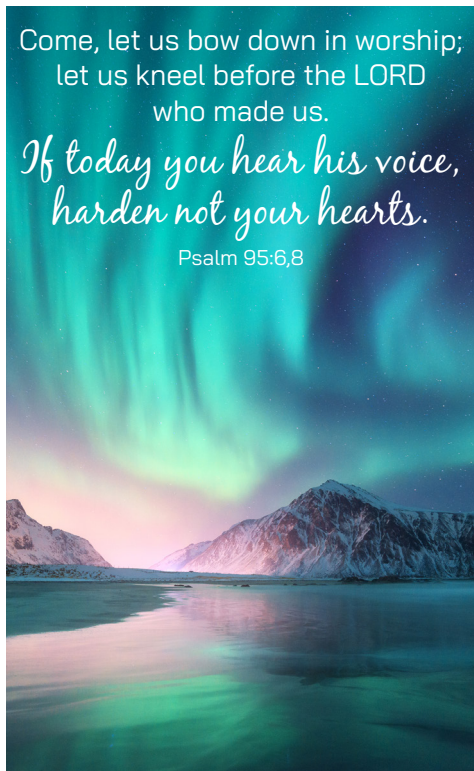

When we walk by faith, and not by sight, we open ourselves to amazement, to God's amazing grace. And the question, "What is this?" is not asked out of confusion or because we are perplexed, but rises up from pure joy, utter wonder, and unending gratitude.

~ Fr. Jay

Come, let us bow down in worship;
let us kneel before the LORD who made us.

SAINT ANSGAR

Saint of the Day: February 3

Patron Saint of: Denmark

The "apostle of the north" (Scandinavia) had enough frustrations to become a saint – and he did. He became a Benedictine at Corbie, France, where he had been educated. Three years later, when the king of Denmark became a convert, Ansgar went to that country for three years of missionary work, without noticeable success. Sweden asked for Christian missionaries, and he went there, suffering capture by pirates and other hardships on the way. Fewer than two years later, he was recalled, to become abbot of New Corbie (Corvey) and bishop of Hamburg. After 13 years work in Hamburg, Ansgar saw it burned to the ground by invading Northmen; Sweden and Denmark returned to paganism.

He directed new apostolic activities in the North, traveling to Denmark and being instrumental in the conversion of another king. By the strange device of casting lots, the king of Sweden allowed the Christian missionaries to return.

Ansgar's biographers remark that he was an extraordinary preacher, a humble and ascetical priest. He was devoted to the poor and the sick, imitating the Lord in washing their feet and waiting on them at table. He died peacefully at Bremen, Germany.

Sweden became pagan again after his death, and remained so until the coming of missionaries two centuries later.

History records what people do, rather than what they are. Yet the courage and perseverance of men and women like Ansgar can only come from a solid base of union with the original courageous and persevering Missionary. Ansgar's life is another reminder that God writes straight with crooked lines. Christ takes care of the effects of the apostolate in His own way; He is first concerned about the purity of the apostles themselves.
